of D. C. Heads.

In addition to opposing the plan of the Commissioners to secure control of the school system, the Petwerth Citizens' Association last night recommended that the partial authority which the Commissioners now exercise over the schools be transferred to the Board of Education. This was the fortieth organization to oppose the plan of the Commissioners and the recond to recommend the vesting of all authority over the schools in the Eoard of Education.

School and the Midcity Home and School Association, last night added their names to the long list of bodies that are opposed to the plan to give the Commissioners authority over the schools. With the hearings before the subcommittee of the House District Committee beginning this morning, there are forty organizations on record against the Commissioners plan. A committee appointed at the session of the Mothers' Congress yesterday will today confer with the District School Committee of the House of Representatives to protest against the change in the school system. But just for vasiety, let's discuss an-other kind of war and another kind of preparedness—the peaceful "war" of husiness and the peaceful preparedness against unfair com-petition.

Let's talk of the price-outting war which is waged, between cer-tain groups of merchants in nearly every community. With no special group in mind, I rater only to gen-eral conditions as I have often oberal conditions as I have often observed them.

Cut-throat business methods alloways puzzled me. I never could figure why any merchant thinks it necessary to cut prices on his goods just to beat out his competitors. In the long run, such warfare seems bound to prove disastrous to allow converned. Even the people who otate what I mean if I tell you what I would try to do if I were a young man starting out in any sort of business in Washington.

CHARACTER and REPUTATION for square-dealing are, in my humble opinion, more than 5a per cent of a man's requirements for attaining business success. So if I were a young merchant, I should cuitivate and guard well these two assets, by crecting around my business a bomb-proof barricade, through which no marauding competitor could charge with his price-cutting bayonets.

No matter how poor I may be, I should strive to make my name and business ideals HOUSEHOLD

Relieved of Indigestion, Gas on Stom

When a person comes forward with tainly shows a deep interest in this city's welfare, and should convince anyone o indigestion. Immediately after eating I would experience that awful distressing feeling. Gas would form and make me aftoroughly uncomfortable. I had to be continually taking something for temporary relief. There is no telling how much money I have spent trying first this and that medicine, taking everything I heard of. Heading of what Dreco was doing for others. I got a bottle. It is no exaggeration when I say that after taking one bottle of Dreco I had received more benefits than from all the other medicines put togsther. I am now on my second bottle, and expect to continue the treament of I feel confident it will effect a permanent cure. Truly, Dreco is a wonderful medicine and I cannot recommend it too highly."

Surely a statement like that from a person right here in our own city should convince anyone. Persons suffering from any form of stomach trouble such as sourness, gas, pains, heartburn, chocking sensations, or from catarrh, rheumatism, kidney, bladder, liver affections, dixiness, or that most common complaint, congulpation, should see Mr. Pulton at O'Donheli's 901 F street store, and let him explain the workings of Dreco. The price is $1.00 or six for $5.00. Mall orders shipped promptly.—Adv.
